

LEO M. FRANK KIDNAPPED FROM PRISON AND HANGED

Lynching Party Raided State Prison Farm During the Night Seized Frank and Hanged Him—Warden and Guards Surprised by the Lynchers While Asleep—Raiders Came in Automobiles.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 17.—Leo M. Frank was lynched early today after he had been kidnapped from the state prison farm at Milledgeville and rushed in a speedy automobile almost to Marietta, Ga., where is buried the body of Mary Phagan, the girl whom Frank was convicted of killing in a pencil factory at Atlanta.

Frank's body was found battered and bruised and hanging by the neck to a tree two miles from Marietta on the Roswell road at 8:30 o'clock this morning, many hours after he had been carried away from the prison farm by a band that apparently had been carefully organized to overcome any resistance.

It was believed that Frank fought desperately for his life, but he probably was easily overcome, as he was still suffering from weakness due to the loss of blood from a wound inflicted by a fellow convict at the prison farm, whither Frank was taken after his sentence of death had been commuted to life imprisonment by Governor Slaton.

The lynching party that killed Frank went to the Milledgeville prison farm in eight automobiles and disappeared as soon as they had secured possession of the man they sought. They next were reported on the Roswell road crossing the Little river and more than 100 shots were heard near there. Search for Frank's body in the river was instituted and the Atlanta authorities shortly after 7 o'clock received word that the body had been found in the stream, but this report was later learned to be untrue.

Owing to the fact that they had cut the telephone and telegraph wires into Milledgeville the lynchers were enabled to gain a good start before news of their attack on the prison farm reached here. After Frank had been shot to death and his body left hanging to a tree the lynchers scattered to their homes.

No trace of them has yet been found, but Governor Nat B. Harris announced today that he would make every possible effort to apprehend and inflict the law's extreme penalty upon the band.

The machinery of the state laws has already been set in motion in an effort to apprehend the lynchers. Poses which set out to trace Frank after he had been kidnapped are now hunting for traces of the kidnapers.

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 17.—Leo M. Frank was kidnapped from the Milledgeville prison farm last night and is believed to have been shot to death on a lonely bridge near Meda hamlet shortly after 4 o'clock this morning.

Searchers from Milledgeville, who arrived at Eatonton, Ga., early today, declared their belief that Frank's body had been thrown into Little river.

Meda is about 20 miles from Milledgeville in the direction of Atlanta.

Between 4 and 5 o'clock this morning, or about five hours after Frank was mysteriously spirited away from the prison farm, a fusillade of shots was heard near Meda.

A searching party from Milledgeville, which was hunting for traces of the kidnapers, came upon a pile of empty cartridge shells upon a bridge spanning Little river and it was at once concluded that they had been left by the mob which carried Frank away.

Although search was made in the vicinity of the bridge no trace of Frank's body was found. Leaders of the searching party concluded that, if Frank really had been killed there, his corpse had either been tossed into the sluggish stream or had been hidden.

Others expressed the belief that Frank's body, sooner or later, would be found upon the grave of Mary Phagan, the 13 year old girl for whose death Frank was sentenced to be executed, this sentence being commuted to life imprisonment later by Governor John M. Slaton.

Every source of the state was thrown into activity at midnight to trace the kidnapers, who spirited Frank away from the Milledgeville prison farm and also to find Frank, either dead or alive.

At that time it was not known whether the famous prisoner had been carried off by friends or foes, but the belief was deep and general that enemies of Frank had kidnapped him in order to mete out upon him the summary vengeance which they thought ought to be his. More than once since his trial, Frank has been referred to as "The most hated man in Georgia."

The search for Frank was handicapped by the fact that the telephone wires leading from Milledgeville had been cut at the gang way carrying Frank off in an automobile.

The motor car dashed off in the direction of Eatonton but later, when the authorities did manage to get in communication with Eatonton it was said that no trace of any mob nor of Frank had been seen there.

The authorities got in touch with officials at Marietta, the home of Mary Phagan, but it was also said there that all was quiet.

Frank was not in the best of health when he was roughly dragged from his bed between 11 and 12 o'clock last night and carried off. He had not yet fully recovered from the injuries inflicted upon him by a fellow convict recently and was weak and nervous.

Frank had only left the hospital yesterday, where he had been visited daily by his wife. One of the most pathetic elements in the dramatic exit of Frank from the farm was the shock which it gave to Mrs. Frank. The loyal wife of the prisoner swooned and is under the care of doctors today. While delirious she called constantly for her husband.

Frank protested weakly when he was seized but no attention was paid to him. Indeed the roughness with which he was handled by the silent leader of the kidnaping band indicated that the members of the gang were not friends, but enemies and dangerous enemies, too.

Warden Smith, of the Milledgeville prison farm, who was overpowered by the kidnapers, declared that he was completely taken by surprise and was absolutely helpless to prevent the carrying off of his prisoner. The warden and two guards were asleep upon the porch of the warden's residence when the mob, carried in seven or eight automobiles, whirled up.

The pounding of the motors aroused the three men but before they could make a move they were all seized and ordered to be silent.

Silently the leaders of the band went to the room where Frank was in bed and ordered him to dress. Frank first asked for an explanation and then began to protest, but the only answer he got was a cuff from one of the men, who grabbed him roughly by the arm and pulled him from his cot.

Frank, pale and trembling so violently that he could hardly clothe himself, dressed and was hurriedly led outside.

Several negro prisoners who had witnessed the scene hurried to the home of J. H. Satterfield, the prison farm bookkeeper, after the automobiles had driven off and notified him as to what had occurred.

Mr. Satterfield hurried over to arouse the warden, but found him securely bound. As soon as the bonds of the three trustees up men had been cut an effort was made to telephone to all the nearby towns and villages and it was then that the discovery was made that the wires had been cut.

It was an hour before the prison farm authorities were able to get in touch with the outside world and this gave plenty of opportunity for the mob to get far away with its prisoner and to deal with him in any way that suited the fancy of his captors.

Poses were quickly formed and started out in all directions but by this time it was after midnight and the roads were deserted so that there were few if any persons abroad to help the poses out. It was pitch dark and the members of the searching bands had to feel their way slowly.

Sheriffs from all the surrounding counties were put upon the trail. One posse from Milledgeville was led by J. Hennis, representative from Baldwin county.

Three companies of militia have been assembled here and are ready to be rushed to any point at a moment's notice. Sheriff's offices throughout the state have been notified by Governor Harris to be on the alert for the missing prisoner or members of the party who took him away from Milledgeville.

There have been few cases in the annals of America's criminal history into which such a dramatic incident has been injected. Because of the racial element which entered into Frank's case and the high feeling aroused in Georgia the trial of the accused murderer quickly arose to the dignity of national interest. When it became certain that Frank must die for the murder of the Phagan girl unless there was an intervention of executive clemency, protests came from all parts of the U. S. The newspapers everywhere took up the case. It was discussed from every angle. The Frank case came to rank with the Thaw case in the public mind. All those features were what added so highly to the dramatic interest of the mysterious kidnaping of Frank and the tragic possibilities which accompanied it.

Mobs have repeatedly clamored for the blood of Leo Frank so that, when it became known today that he had been carried away, most people jumped to the conclusion that he was a doomed man, if not already a dead man.

The most intense excitement prevailed today in Milledgeville, but from all accounts there were about 25 or 30 men in the band which carried off the prisoner.

Following the disappearance of Frank, strange reports got abroad. According to one of these, a secret society had been formed in Marietta after Frank's death sentence was commuted and the members of this band pledged themselves with the most solemn oaths never to rest until the alleged slayer of Little Mary Phagan had been put to death. This report strengthened the supposition that Frank had been taken to Marietta to meet a violent death upon the grave of the girl whose death was laid at his hands.

Most of those who saw the mobmen at work were frightened into silence, but it was learned that practically all were armed with shot guns, rifles and revolvers and that only a few of them wore masks. Apparently the members of the band were fearless and the coolness and precision with which they worked showed that they had no fear of the consequences.

According to one report the leader of the mob spoke pleasantly to the warden, after the latter had been securely bound, saying: "You can come along with us if you want to. There is plenty of room."

"I'm not going anywhere," the warden replied.

The leader shrugged his shoulders and jumped into a motor car, at the same time giving the order to go ahead.

Marietta, Ga., Aug. 17.—So quietly was the work of the lynchers performed that people in Marietta did not know that the body of Leo M. Frank had been brought to their very doorstep for more than two hours. When the news reached the Cobb county seat, a throng at once hurried to the Frey mill, near which the body was still hanging to a tree. The features of the hanging corpse were immediately recognized. Identification was made doubly positive by the scar of the scarcely healed wound inflicted on Frank by his fellow prisoner, William Green, a few weeks ago at the prison farm.

The bringing of the body to Cobb county where Mary Phagan was born and raised, was but an example of the relentless purpose of the mob members.

The mob leaders left the prison officials bound and handcuffed, they informed Superintendent J. N. Burke that Frank's body would be found near the grave of Mary Phagan. To insure this and prevent any possibility of interruption of their plans by officers of the law, every telegraph and telephone wire out of Milledgeville had been cut—save one, which was seldom used. This one wire communicating with Augusta flashed the news to the world in the early morning that Frank was at last in the hands of the men whose vengeance he has been living in dread since the day he was arrested as the slayer of Mary Phagan.

That single strand and the news it told prevented the purpose of the lynchers of bringing their captive's life to an end in Marietta. Every sheriff in South Georgia had been ordered to keep a vigilant watch on all automobiles passing through their section.

Long before daylight the sheriffs had drawn their cordons. The lynchers evidently knew of this. For when they reached the swampy banks of Little river, it was decided to run no risk of being balked by a rescue party. It was then planned that to take the prisoner right to the Marietta cemetery would be inviting a battle with officers. The mill was then the place selected. The gin house is 50 yards off the Roswell road but invisible from the highway. The nearest farm house is 200 yards away. The place is located just a mile and a half from the National cemetery.

Frank in his death ride was not even clothed. He was sleeping in the cell house when the lynchers arrived. And when the throng from Marietta arrived the hanging corpse was clad only in a silken nightshirt with the initials "L. M. F." embroidered over the heart.

Frank's eyes were bandaged. His hands were cuffed behind him. A sack had been tied about his hips. His feet were dangling about four feet above the ground. An oak tree was the gallows.

Before 9 o'clock more than 1,000 persons had gathered to look on the grim spectacle. There were a number of women in the crowd, many carrying babies in their arms.

The body was still warm when the crowd reached the scene. Not a shot had been fired and there was absolutely no sign of mutilation. The wound inflicted by Green had been opened up on the left side of his throat by the contact with the big grass rope that brought death. Even while the crowd gathered it still poured a small stream of blood. And the men who had thus taken the law into their own hands, had disappeared as suddenly as they had arrived at the prison.

It was commonly supposed that the lynchers came from Cobb county. If they did they had concealed their movements thoroughly. There was absolutely no excitement in Marietta Monday. As far as could be ascertained every man in Cobb county was present or accounted for at his home on Monday night.

Even after the discovery of the body, there was no one to make any disposition of the corpse. Finally a member of the throng, who had returned to Marietta, called on an undertaker there and he took charge of the remains for the time being.

SLATON CONDEMNS FRANK LYNCHING

By Telegram to The Freeman.

San Francisco, Aug. 17.—Ex-Governor John M. Slaton, of Georgia, who commuted the death sentence of Leo M. Frank to life imprisonment, expressed himself in the strongest possible language when he was informed today that the famous prisoner had been kidnapped from the Milledgeville prison farm.

"If Frank was spirited away by enemies and if he was harmed by those who kidnapped him I want to say it was an outrage," declared Governor Slaton hotly. "If Frank was lynched every man who took part in the proceedings ought to be hanged as an assassin."

"Lynchings are contrary to civilization and the murder of Frank would be an act that every good man of Georgia would instantly condemn."

Although the possibility existed that Frank had been carried off by friends, ex-Governor Slaton held the belief that he had been kidnapped by a hostile mob.

"I could not use language too condemnatory for those who would lynch Frank after the legal machinery of the commonwealth had taken its course," continued the former executive. "I believe the present governor would do all in his power to punish the mob. I believe that the newspapers of Georgia will reflect my own sentiments."

"I would be shocked and horrified beyond expression to learn that Frank's life had been taken. Any man who approves of the lynch law is unworthy to be a citizen of the state of Georgia."

Any man or newspaper that would try to condone the lynching of Frank ought to be driven out of the state. The conduct of a miserable mob of assassins is the same conduct of people who shoot a man from behind or murder a defenseless woman."

GULF COAST TOWNS CUT OFF BY HURRICANE

Galveston Causeway Destroyed and Water in Streets of the City—Hoped That Ample Warning Prevented Loss of Life—Property Damage Great as in Disaster of 1901.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Austin, Tex., Aug. 17.—With Galveston, Houston, Beaumont, Port Arthur, Sabine, Sabine Pass and numerous smaller places on the gulf coast cut off from all communication with the outside world, efforts were made here today to learn the extent of the damage done by the West Indian hurricane which has been ripping its way inland from the gulf for the past 24 hours. It is known that a section of the causeway at Galveston, which connects that city with the mainland has been washed away and that the water was at least three feet deep in the streets of Galveston, but beyond these advices which were received late last night nothing has been heard.

Well informed persons here take an optimistic view of the situation and believe that the early warning given by the weather bureau of the coming storm gave the people of Galveston time to get away and that the loss of life in that city will be small. It is known that 8,000 persons left Galveston yesterday and early last night but nothing has been heard from points further east on the coast for 24 hours and the fate of those sections is unknown.

Governor Ferguson was early at work in an effort to learn the state of affairs, but he was handicapped by the destruction of wire facilities to the centers of interest. Houston, where most of the Galveston refugees rushed, was shut off from the world at 3 o'clock this morning. The last word from there was that the storm was increasing in violence.

The telegraph company officials here were busy, rushing men not only from Austin but every other nearby city to Galveston. Word had come to them that a section of the causeway had gone and all telegraph facilities had been destroyed. Water was several feet deep in the telegraph office in Galveston. The message instructed officials to prepare for damage fully as great as in 1901.

Railroad officials were also advised early of the destruction of the causeway and sent gangs of laborers by special trains to repair the damage. The citizens of Sabine and Sabine Pass, totalling about 1,200 were reported to have been gotten out in safety. At Port Arthur, which is on Sabine Pass, it was reported that 600 persons had remained in their homes and would take the chance.

The entire coast from Sabine pass to Matagorda Bay, a distance of nearly 200 miles has been out of touch with the world for 24 hours and much apprehension is expressed for the safety of persons there.

Grand Island, Texas, was reported to be under six feet of water. While no steamers left Galveston yesterday, it is feared that some of the shipping on the gulf which could not be warned by wireless of the approaching hurricane may have met with disaster.

The last report of the velocity of the wind at Galveston was 90 miles an hour. This equals the force of the wind in the storm of 1901.

Rein has been falling in torrents here for hours.

Port Worth, Tex., Aug. 17.—Officials of the Santa Fe railway here today confirmed the report that a section of the causeway at Galveston had been washed out by the hurricane of yesterday and last night.

Work trains are already on the way south.

The telegraph people have been advised to prepare for as much damage as in the flood of 1901, but this is supposed to refer to property damage only.

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 17.—Austin was added to the cities isolated in the storm swept section of Texas when the last wire to that place "went down" shortly before 10 a. m. today.

This indicates that the West Indian hurricane has already passed considerable distance inland.

New Orleans, La., Aug. 17.—Communication with Houston, Texas, for a few minutes this morning brought the news that a party of refugees who reached Houston at 6 a. m. today believed that Galveston was safe, although they thought a small loss of life was inevitable.

This party reported that water covered all the streets of Galveston, but that the velocity of the wind had died down to 25 miles an hour and the water was stationary at 3 a. m. Numerous craft in the bay had been overturned and others were water-logged.

There was considerable damage to property.

Grocer in Bankruptcy.

A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed in United States District Court in New York on Monday by Charles Braley, grocer, of No. 118, Downs street. His liabilities are $1,299 and assets $601.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK IN AEGEAN SEA

By Telegram to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 17.—The British transport Royal Edward has been sunk by a submarine in the Aegean Sea while conveying troops to the Dardanelles. It is feared that fully 1,000 men aboard the vessel perished.

The admiralty announced the destruction of the transport today. The official statement says that there were on board the ship 1,602 men and gives the number saved as 600.

That a British transport had been sunk became known at the admiralty in the forenoon, but it was not until 12:40 o'clock this afternoon that the official announcement was made.

The submarine which sank the Royal Edward is believed here to be the German U boat which had previously sunk two British warships off Gallipoli peninsula. Since the loss of the warships greater precautions than ever have been taken. But the sinking of the Royal Edward indicates that the submarine has succeeded in reaching the route followed by British ships in taking new forces to the Dardanelles front.

Slashed With a Pen-Knife.

In a mixed party on Ann street on Monday night about 11 o'clock Silas Holmes, colored, cut Laura Smith on the arm with a pen-knife and also attempted to assault Earl Sage. The parties had been at Kingston Point during the evening and went to the Smith's girl home on Ann street. The can was run and Holmes wanted to get accommodations for the night. The other bucks in the house objected and Silas pulled out the knife and slashed the girl. Sage interfered and seeing himself in the minority Holmes beat it. The girl's injury was only slight. Holmes went back to Washburn's brickyard where he is employed and was at the office trying to draw his wages when arrested this morning by Sergeant Hanley. Holmes was badly frightened and said he would not have done any cutting except that the crowd was too many for him. He was sent to jail and will be arraigned on Wednesday morning.

SERBIA BALKS BALKAN UNITY

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

London, Aug. 17.—Serbia, for whose protection Russia went to war with Germany, is balking the efforts of the entente powers to gain the support of the united Balkan nations. At the critical hour in the negotiations that country is withholding its consent to the acquisition of Macedonian territory by Bulgaria.

England is bringing the utmost pressure to bear upon Serbia but the final decision is not to be reached for several days.

The Serbian legation today authorized an official denial of the report that the Serbian government had ceded its portion of Macedonia to Bulgaria in return for territorial gain on her western frontier as pledged by the entente powers.

M. Boshkovitch, the Serbian minister to England, called at the foreign office last night and conferred with Sir Edward Grey for several hours. The situation was gone over at length, but it is understood that nothing developed which might indicate that Serbia would immediately yield to the allies' demands.

The situation at Athens is regarded as highly favorable to the allies and diplomats are unable to explain Serbia's delay in view of the fact that Greece, through the return to power of Eleutherios Venizelos is practically numbered as a supporter of the entente.

FAKE TREE DOCTORS.

The Untrained Tree Doctor Continues His Unsatisfactory Work.

An increasing number of complaints have been received during the past four years by The New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse concerning unsatisfactory work and exorbitant charges by so-called tree doctors. These complaints have come from all sections of the state and are the result of careless and unsatisfactory work upon shade trees in private grounds, streets and parks. The neighboring states of Pennsylvania and Massachusetts have literally been overrun by these quack tree doctors who make the wildest promises as to the curing of chestnut blight and other tree troubles which our ablest scientists know that as a rule there are no easy methods of combatting or curing.

The State College of Forestry believes that there is a legitimate field for good tree surgery and the practice of arboriculture by men who have had both training and experience. As the college is the state institution designated and supported for educational work in forestry in New York it feels a good deal of responsibility and especially in view of the complaints made to it and it is therefore warning the citizens of New York state against fraudulent representations and impossible results promised by incompetent fellows who are ready to take advantage of sentiment regarding trees to charge exorbitant rates and to do work which may be of little benefit to the trees. Because the work is new and people do not understand how cheaply good work can be done they are being taken advantage of constantly and often being charged from two to three times more than necessary.

Forestry as it will be practiced generally in this country in the future will be the business-like raising of a crop of trees for commercial purposes. The raising and care of forest trees for streets, home grounds and parks while not the principal work of the forester is nevertheless closely connected with the proper development of forestry. With a growing interest in city planning and the beautification of home grounds and country properties there is an increasing demand for men trained thoroughly for the carrying out of city street and park work and other phases of arboriculture. This demand The New York State College of Forestry is filling by offering professional courses in arboriculture or city forestry which will train men thoroughly and effectively for every phase of work connected with the planting, care and protection of shade trees whether upon private grounds, in streets or parks. A number of men are already taking up this course in the College of Forestry and within a few years there will be a strong body of technically trained men with in the state thoroughly prepared to carry out this work effectively and able to handle the single tree of the private owner or the park shade trees of a whole city in such a way that the title Tree Doctor or Arborist will be one of respect and not one of reproach.

It is suggested to private owners that where tree doctors offer to improve individual shade trees of streets and parks that reference and careful specification be required and that a contract be made which calls for certain richness of cement, if that is used in the tree, and a definite guarantee as to permanency. The College of Forestry at Syracuse will be glad to give the right kind of tree surgery.

Judicial Recall Denounced.

The American Bar Association met at Salt Lake City this morning and the report of its committee to oppose judicial recall has been sent out in advance of the meeting. The committee consists of one member from each of the states, territories and colonial dependencies of the United States. Judge Clearwater represents the state of New York, and the report quotes him as saying of the movement for the recall of judges and of judicial decisions by popular vote as follows: "Owing to the militant attitude of the State Bar Association upon this subject in New York, and the high standing of its members who have presented a united front in opposition to this destructive vagary, such demand as may have heretofore existed for it in this state is practically dead. The leading members of the bar here practically have united in denouncing judicial recall as a measure designed and used by aspiring and unscrupulous demagogues."

LEADING CLERGYMAN DEAD.

The Rev. John W. Ackerly, Methodist Preacher for 49 Years.

The Rev. John W. Ackerly, who was in the Methodist ministry for forty-nine years and was one of the most widely known clergymen in this section of the state, died at his home, No. 75 Maiden Lane, on Monday afternoon at five o'clock, aged 79 years. Several weeks ago Mr. Ackerly suffered a stroke of paralysis, from which he never recovered.

Mr. Ackerly's ministry began in Ulster county and much of his ministerial course was spent in New York city and along the Hudson river. He joined the New York conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church in 1860 and was assigned to Woodstock. In 1861-62 he was at Hancock, Delaware county; in 1863-64 at Ellenville, and in 1865-67 at Tremont Church, New York city. He was assigned to the pastorate of the Red Hook Church in 1868-69; Great Barrington, Mass., 1870-71; Tuckahoe, Westchester county, 1872-74; New Castle, 1875-77, and Duane Street Church, New York city, 1878-80. From 1881 to 1884, inclusive, he was presiding elder of the Ellenville District, and from 1885-87 was pastor of St. John's Church, New York city.

He became pastor of the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church, of this city, in 1888, and remained for two years. From 1890-92 he was pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Peekskill, and from 1894-96 of the Washington Heights Church, New York city; Matteawan, Dutchess county, 1897-99; Pawling, 1900; Chatham, 1901-02; Philmont, 1903-05; Red Hook, 1906-08.

He retired from the active ministry in 1909 and shortly afterward purchased the property at No. 75 Maiden Lane, where he has since resided. He has occupied the pulpit of local churches many times since his retirement and was always much sought after to preach in the various churches throughout the county. He was an excellent preacher and had many warm personal friends in all parts of the New York conference.

While he was pastor of the Clinton Avenue Church in 1888, Mr. Ackerly became a member of Kingston Lodge, No. 10, Free and Accepted Masons. Upon the death of George B. Merritt, he became chaplain of the lodge and continued in that office until his death.

Mr. Ackerly is survived by one daughter, Miss Abbie Ackerly, who resided with him. ## CAPT. MEAGHER SHOWS HOW TO SHOOT

All of the New York and Albany morning papers feature the fact that in the target practice at the Plattsburgh military camp on Monday, Capt. Frank L. Meagher of this city made the highest score, 91 out of a possible 100. The New York Times says:

The best record announced tonight was that of Frank L. Meagher, an acting sergeant in Company D, who made the splendid score of ninety-one out of a possible hundred. Sergeant Meagher is from Kingston and is captain of the National Guard. Private R. B. Chapman of Company B and Private R. Griswold of Company A tied with a score of eighty-eight. That was the second highest score reported tonight.

Ex-Ambassador Robert Bacon, who is a private in Company C, made a score of 57, while Robert Bacon, Jr., excelled his father by 14 points. Mayor Mitchell covered himself with glory by shooting 73, which is just one point higher than the record made by his police commissioner, Arthur Woods, a private of Company C.

The target work, which was preliminary to the record shooting that is to come later in the week, was in charge of Captain G. G. Shaw, of the Thirtieth Infantry, one of the best marksmen of the regular army. Captain Shaw led the famous United States Infantry team that won a championship in the national team matches. Captain Shaw is also one of the few medal of honor men in the army. He won recognition for conspicuous bravery in campaigns against the Moros.

Captain Shaw gave orders on Sunday that the four companies, A, B, C and D must be out of their tents by 4:30 a. m. and on the range at work an hour and a half later. On the minute, the shooting began with Company A at the target. Each man first fired ten rounds at slow fire at a range of 200 yards.

In the afternoon each company fired again at rapid fire, each man being required to fire five shots at 200 yards and five at 300 yards. One minute was permitted for each round of five shots at the two ranges.

K. OF C. DO NOT LEASE BATH BEACH

For the past few days stories have been circulated that the Knights of Columbus had leased the beach at Kingston Point and that they were running it under the name of the Kingston Point Bathing Association.

This morning Grand Knight P. T. Murphy when approached and questioned by a Freeman reporter gave the following statement:

"For the benefit of the public I desire to state that Kingston Council, Knights of Columbus, are not in any way connected with the leasing of a baseball park or grounds of any nature at Kingston Point.

"There was a baseball team playing under the name of the Knights of Columbus which leased that grounds but they were never approved by the Knights and recently changed their name to the Orientals. They are not and never were representatives of the Knights of Columbus."

K. A. Tennis Tournament in Progress.

The Kingston Academy Tennis Club is now playing its last annual tennis tournament on the academy courts. The trials were played Monday, August 16, and Tuesday, August 17, and the results were as follows:

Stelle, 1, 8, 1.
Warren, 6, 4.
Reynolds, 3, 3, Warren forfeited to Stelle because of inability to continue playing.

Church, 6, 3.
Gibson, 6, 2, 1.
Britt, 3, 1.
Dewler, 6, 6.

Already things have gone contrary to expectations, due to the dropping out of Taylor, who was to play Stelle and also to the substituting of Reynolds.

QUARRY TURNED INTO A THEATER

The Maverick Colony, Near Woodstock, Plans a Great Open Air Event on Thursday, August 26, With Noted Talent.

In a shut-in valley between the villages of West Hurley and Woodstock, Ulster county, New York, nestled in the lower ridges of the Catskills, is a colony of artists and musicians that would now call itself to your attention.

The colony is known as the Maverick, and is headed by Hervey White, novelist and poet, author of some dozen published volumes, and editor and publisher of "The Wild Hawk," a periodical of beauty and freedom that is now completing its fourth successful year.

Occupying the modest cottages of this settlement during the last ten years has been a group of professional musicians of the highest order. Paul Kefer and Horace Britt, well known cellists in New York and all eastern cities, Pierre Henrotte and John Grolle, violinists, and Marguerite Hobart and Maria Mielcer-Narodny, sopranos, are the most permanent of the number. From time to time these have given recitals in the village of Woodstock, until the Maverick Quartet or any soloist or group coming from the Maverick has established a reputation throughout the community for the highest grade of classical productions.

Building on this reputation of the past, the colony is now coming forth with a long cherished plan, namely to establish an open air theater with a permanent orchestra, and company of actors and dancers, that will give its own entertainments and serve as a nucleus to attract other musicians, artists and composers who will come here to try out their new productions, or repeat those adapted to the open air.

In accordance with this plan such noted artists, as Jean Sibelius, Reinhold Gliere, Arthur Nevin, Henry F. Gilbert, among the composers, Anna Pavlova, Lada, among the dancers, Edwin Markham and Ivan Narodny among the writers, Birge Harrison and Deying Woodward among the painters have been glad to offer the influence of their names.

Acting on this, the Maverick has constructed a theater in a side-hill stone quarry overlooking the distant country. And the fields and groves have been fitted up as spacious picnic grounds with accommodation for parking motor cars and carriages, with booths for refreshments, with water convenient, and everything that makes attractive and comfortable.

The theater with its rock acoustics, its great stage, its terrace for reserved seats, its pit and its galleries is a remarkable adaptation of natural advantages. Its decoration has been undertaken by two well known artists, Andrew Dasburg and H. L. Mac Fee, assisted by Honka Karasz whose poster work is attracting so much attention.

But it is the aim to make this a center for the people of the community as well as a gathering place of artists. For this purpose the picnic grounds below the theater but with sound of the music have been arranged where without interruption to the music lovers in the theater itself, picnicking and visiting may go on and this without cost to the visitor but even to his possible profit, for each is being urged to bring some article to sell on his own account in the manner of a European fair. Thus visitors will be able to purchase sandwiches, cakes, fruits, confections for consumption on the grounds, or maple sugar, nuts, handmade articles, for souvenirs of the place and the occasion. Of course the majority of the resident population will attend the performances. But there are some who will stay below with the children or for various reasons will not care to attend and these shall be as welcome as any and will enjoy the music and picnicking without expense.

The first festival to which you are now invited will take place on Thursday, August 26, provided the day is fair (neither raining nor threatening rain) and in case it is not, on the following day or if that is rainy on the next.

The entertainment will develop gradually from anytime after one o'clock, by means of the booths, the fair and some races and games, till the call in the billboards is given to the theater at 3:30 when the pageant will make ready its display. For the first year the pageant will be limited to the theater, but it is hoped that the crowd will be a pageant in itself. The masquerade and fantasy of the fair will suggest this, and as there is to be a fancy dress ball on the stage after the evening performance, many of the young people will come in costume, which they will wear of course throughout the afternoon and evening. Everyone is urged to dress with comfort and without convention, and not coats are specially taboo. Even the orchestra will be urged to appear in negligé and it is hoped that all the audience will keep them in countenance by appearing in the same.

The concert program will be announced later in detail; suffice to say now that there will be a pageant, then an overture, then solos, and other numbers with songs and pantomimes and ballet. An intermission will give much freedom for moving about.

After the two hours of the concert will be a two hours of respite for eating and visiting and wandering about in the woods. Of course you will bring your own hamper or basket, and eat in the company of your friends. Tea and coffee, chocolate and milk will be on sale at the booths.

At half past seven or eight, with the full moon set up in the east, the company will be gathered for the second performance of which the great dancer Lada will be the ruling genius. She will give a series of six interpretations of the music with the marvelous grace and talent of which she is mistress. She will have as accessories, the rugged wild surroundings of the stone quarry theater, the banners and pageantry of the artists, and the picturesque audience, all behind the flare of flaming torches or in search lights or colored lights if she desires. Overhead will be the moon and the night sky. The music will be of the quality she deserves. Leon Barzin will be the conductor, and Madame Maria Mielcer-Narodny will sing.

The excellence of the artists, the enthusiasm of the audience, the picturesque setting in the hill side will be an experience you will never forget. The price of admission to the theater is fifty cents for each performance; but in order to secure funds to partially meet the initial expense as well as to insure those who desire comfortable seats at the last moment, a terrace section will be reserved at a dollar a seat. It is hoped, too, that many who wish to show patronage and interest will purchase these at an early date.

Tickets are on sale at the postoffice at Woodstock, or they may be ordered by mail, making checks payable to Hervey White.

The costume ball on the great stage after the evening performance will be open to all and without additional charge. It is only urged that the dancers come in fancy dress to enhance the effect of carnival throughout the day.

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

1289—A New and Stylish Skirt—Ladies' Skirt, in Raised or Normal Waistline.

Grenadine, in the new sand shades or in green or brown would be nice for this model. It is equally good for gabardine, serge, poplin or voile, and lovely for taffeta, linen or gingham. The front forms a wide panel with added yoke portion, that extends over the back, which likewise forms panel sections. Plated portions over the sides give fullness and grace to this attractive model. The pattern is cut in 6 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure. It will require 3 1/2 yards of 52 inch material for a 24 inch size. This skirt measures about 3 1/2 yards at its lower edge with plaits drawn out.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

MORE TRIBUTES TO SENATOR LINSON

Additional tributes to the memory of Senator Linson have been received by Judge Jenkins from Judge Betts and Former District Attorney John N. Vanderlyn of New Paltz, both of whom were unable to be present at the meeting of the Ulster County Bar Association held recently at the court house.

Judge Betts's letter is as follows:
Kingston, N. Y., August 13, 1915.
Honorable James Jenkins,
Vice President, Ulster County Bar Association,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Sir:
I greatly regret that my absence from town prevented my knowing of and attending the meeting of the Bar Association called to take appropriate and timely action on the death of Senator Linson.

I came to Kingston, September, 1875, Senator Linson in January, 1876, and shortly thereafter I began reading law in the office of Schoonmaker and Linson and continued in that office as a student, law clerk and lawyer, until after Senator Linson left the same in about 1890. I was very closely associated with him from 1876 in many matters until his death. He was my preceptor in my student days and a very careful and painstaking one. He was always perfectly willing to give me his patient time and attention. He seemed to feel that that was his duty to his profession as well as to myself and the other students, who from time to time were in that office. We all grew to love him and respect him and his knowledge of the law. He had the confidence of the late Judge Schoonmaker.

The same conscientious regard and kindly, courteous attention that he gave to his law students, he gave to his clients. He was scrupulous in caring for their interests in keeping them out of litigation, if practicable; and if not, to give them the best care and protection that he could, and that protection was great.

A master of logic and law, no pains and labor were too great for him to bestow on his client's case, be that client's interest large or small. He was careful, methodical, honest, industrious and true throughout his long and successful career. He has gone, following the other great leaders of the Ulster Bar. Prematurely cut down, he still left a great record of results achieved. As a lawyer, legislator, public spirited citizen and kindly friend, his memory is one of the rich heritages of our profession.

Very truly yours,
JAMES A. BETTS.

Mr. Vanderlyn's letter to Judge Jenkins is as follows:

The Constitutional Convention of the State of New York
Albany,
August 10, 1915.

Hon. James Jenkins,
Ulster County Court Chambers,
Kingston, N. Y.

Dear Judge:
Attendance at the Constitutional Convention prevented my being present at the meeting of the Ulster County Bar, on Friday evening, which I sincerely regret, for I desired to have added my tribute to the memory of Hon. J. J. Linson.

Having known Mr. Linson since he began the practice of his profession in Ulster county, I had for him, as all who had been brought in close business relations with him must have had, the highest regard and respect.

Mr. Linson was a strong and able lawyer; he knew the law and was concise and logical in presenting his cause to the court. He was an opponent who always fought fairly, was kind and courteous to his brother lawyers, and gave freely of his valuable counsel and encouragement to the younger members of the Bar.

I feel that by his death I have lost a personal friend, and that the Bar of this county has been deprived of one of its most able members.

Very truly yours,
JOHN N. VANDERLYN.

A Quick Wink.

The closing of the eye, the rest and the opening of it have been measured and are found to consume three hundred and ninety-five one-thousandths of a second. This is a quick wink, and winks have been measured that required forty-one-thousandths of a second more time. For these measurements especially arranged photographic apparatus is required, and then when a bit of white paper is placed on the eyelid its motions can be accurately determined. In a quick wink the closing of the eye has been found to require seventy-five one-thousandths of a second, the rest twice as long and the opening one hundred and seventy-one one-thousandths of a second.

CHARLES PRAY

YANKEE INVENTOR IN GERMAN WARSHOPS ESCAPES TO BRITAIN WITH SECRETS.

Charles Pray.

London, Aug. 17.—No more amazing story of the war has been given the public than that related by Charles Pray, an American, who has just reached England after having escaped from a German internment camp.

Pray was hired in Detroit, Mich., to go to Germany as a draughtsman in October 1913, presumably to work in a machine shop at Zossen. His birth certificate which the German agent required, he said was afterwards used by a German spy, as were the certificates of six other men who accompanied him. They designed armored motor cars, searchlights, thermite shells and many other of the ingenious devices used by the Germans. When the war broke out he wanted to go to England but was arrested, and after several months in various jails in Germany finally escaped from the internment camp at Rottenberg, went to Switzerland, Italy, France and finally to England. He is now employed by the English government on the same kind of work that he did in Germany.

New York's Earthquake.

The "New York earthquake" occurred Aug. 10, 1884. It was a terrific earthquake through New England and the middle states, its center of intensity being in the villages of Amityville and Jamaica, N. Y. The walls of the Presbyterian Sunday school at Jamaica were cracked in two places, one to two inches wide, from the roof to the foundations, and the walls of a house in Amityville were so cracked that it was possible to lay a broomhandle in the openings. New York, like a great part of the country, also felt the great "Charleston earthquake" of Aug. 31, 1886. New York received this shock at 9:54 in the morning.

Noncommittal.

In many ways the Cornishman reminds one of the Scot. When he has absolute knowledge of a thing he is "sure as sartin," but he prefers to be "sure as can be," which admits of a loophole. In ordinary conversation he likes a little mystery and takes care not to give himself away. This, from J. Henry Harris' "Cornish Saints and Sinners," illustrates in a general way the point:

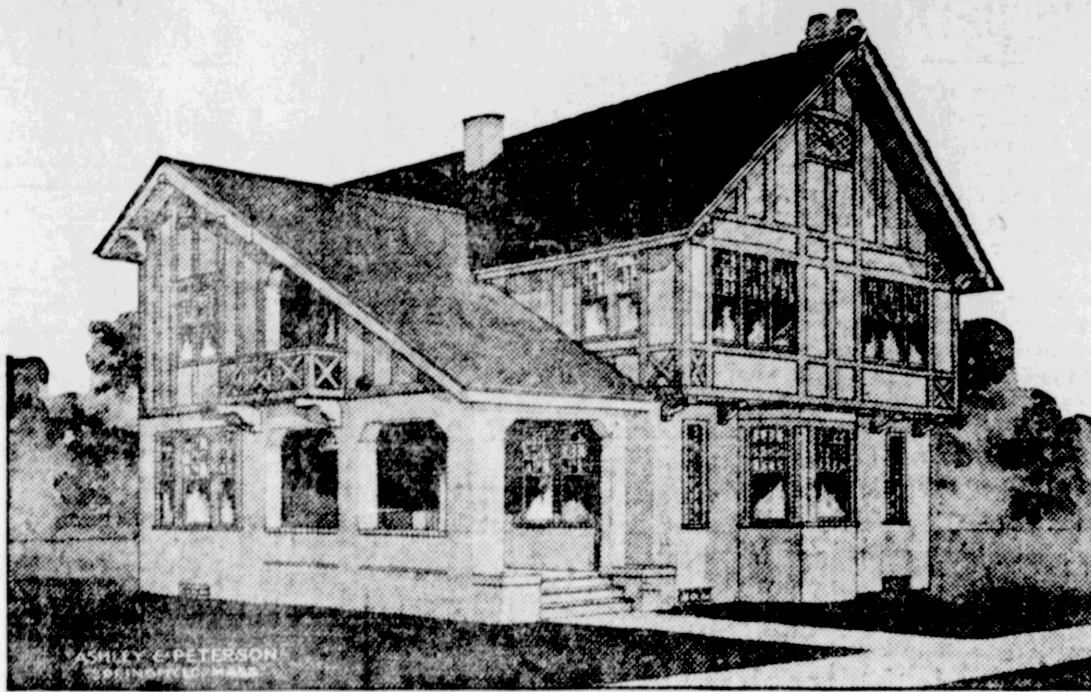

"Where are you going?" "Down along." "Where to?" "Past the corner." "How far?" "A pure bit." "Will you be long?" "Maybe." "Say an hour?" "If you like." "Or two?" "Shouldn't wonder."

Not Looking For Them.

"With the salary and the tips and the other emoluments you ought to do pretty well," said the boss to Rastus, the new porter.

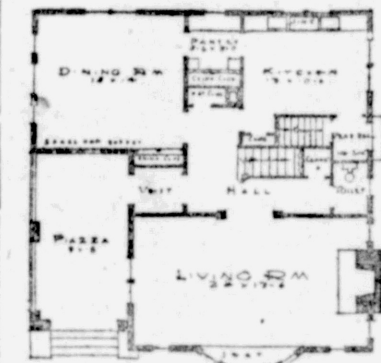

"It's de salary an' de tips what interests me," replied Rastus. "Ah don't think Ah'd catch much fo' any 'moluments Ah'd afteh Ahm daid."—Springfield Union.

A Half-Timbered House of Nine Rooms. No. 123

This striking house is distinguished particularly on the exterior by its long, sweeping roof lines, its half-timbered second story, its roof and balcony supported by brackets, the liberal use of leaded glass windows, the heavy piazza pillars and its chimney pots. Within, a departure from the conventional is marked by the immense hall, which cuts the house entirely in two.

The piazza is 9x20 feet. One enters a square vestibule through a glass paneled door, and through another door admittance is gained to the main hall. An open stairway of unusual width leads to the second floor. Beneath the stairs is a good-sized clothes closet, and at the end of the hallway is a toilet with lavatory.

Insects' Sense of Smell. How do insects smell? Naturalists are agreed that they are keenly sensitive to certain odors, but they differ widely as to the organs with which they do it. The usual opinion has been that their antennae smell them as do our noses. But Dr. N. E. McIndoo of the Washington bureau of entomology points out that those which have no antennae smell equally as well as those which have. He suggests that certain pores at the bases of the wings and legs are their organs of smell, for when these are covered with glue or vaseline they react to perfumes only in a very slow manner.—New York World.

Died For Duty.

An example of devotion to country is found in a soldier of the French army in the war of 1799. He had wandered into the woods for a stroll, when he was ambushed by the enemy. Instantly a hundred bayonets pricked his breast, and a voice whispered, "Make the least noise and you are a dead man." Without a second's hesitation he cried, "The enemy is here!" He fell lifeless to the ground, but 25,000 of the French army were saved. Devotion to duty had become so strong a habit that he never thought of life.

Directly across from the foot of the stairs are the wide French doors which admit to the living room, 24x13.6 feet. A bay window on the front of the house affords opportunity for a comfortable window seat, which has long narrow leaded glass windows on each side. A fireplace of tapestry brick harmonizes with the tiny panes of leaded glass used in such profusion.

To the left of the stairs a hall extends at right angles toward the rear of the house, terminating in a hat closet. To the left is the dining room, reached by a French door. This room is 15x14 feet. Two group windows admit an abundance of light. In the corner is a china closet with leaded glass doors. Beside this, high in the wall is a leaded glass window, with space beneath for a handsome buffet.

The kitchen 13x10.6, is reached from the right of the hallway. A good sized pantry is situated between kitchen and dining room, communicating with both. A small entry, reached by a side door, opens upon the kitchen and also to the basement stairs.

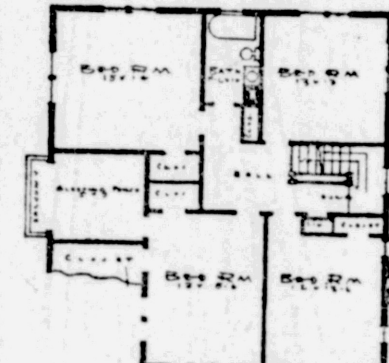

The second story is a delight to the housewife. Four bedrooms, 15x14, 13x13, 12x15.6 and 12x15.6 feet respectively, all with large closets, are grouped around a central hall. Each bedroom has windows on two sides. In addition there is a bathroom, a linen closet, a storeroom opening from one of the bedrooms, and a sleeping porch, 9x9 feet, with a balcony. If preferred, this may be utilized for a playroom for the child.

dren, the addition of a window making its use practicable even in the coldest weather.

On the third floor are a bedroom, 10x13, with a maid's bedroom, 10x15, both with generous closets, and in addition unlimited storage space beneath the rafters.

The house is finished in rough cast stucco with half-timbered second story. The chimneys are of stucco, with terra cotta chimney pots. The roof is shingled. The house is an exact square, 25 feet on a side. Altogether a most satisfying home for any family.

For detailed plans and estimate of cost consult any local builder or architect or builder whose advertisement appears on this page.

What Are Children?

What are children? Flowers—they are the flowers of the invisible world, indestructible, self-perpetuating flowers, each with a multitude of angels and evil spirits underneath its leaves, toiling and wrestling for dominion over it.

Blossoms—they are the blossoms of another world, whose fragrance is angels and archangels. Or dewdrops—they are dewdrops that have their source not in the chambers of the earth nor among the vapors of the sky, which the next breath of wind or the next flash of sunshine may dry up forever, but among the everlasting fountains and inexhaustible reservoirs of mercy and love.—John Neal.

Saving in the Home.

In systematic saving lies the secret of a successful housekeeper. Not stinting or denying, but practical, regular saving. Five or 10 cents put carefully away regularly soon means $3 or $4 with which to buy some household necessity, perhaps luxury, and money saved in this way is never missed. Money saving is a habit, once formed hard to break, and means comfort and contentment to the housekeeper who will acquire it.—San Francisco Chronicle.

POULTRY GOSSIP.

A bad habit may be taught dogs or cats by throwing the head of a freshly killed fowl to them.

Capital, pluck, enterprise, perseverance and patience are qualifications that make successful poultrymen.

Don't take it for granted that because the hens are out around the farm they can get all the grit they need.

It is a good idea to keep an old broom handy and clean out the coops often; then the chicks will thrive better.

Hens are not so apt to hide their nests in weeds and under buildings when plenty of clean, vermin free nests are provided in houses.

GUINEA HENS ARE GOOD EGG PRODUCERS

There is little doubt about guineas being good layers, but they very frequently hide their nests, and many of the eggs are lost or eaten by animals, writes a correspondent of Farm Progress. The guinea seems to be a little nearer the wild fowl than any other of our domesticated birds. Disturb them ever so little and they are very likely to change their nests.

It is hard to say just how many eggs a guinea will lay during the laying season.

Taking into consideration the little trouble and cost of raising guineas are a most profitable fowl. They hunt for food in the woods and fields and do not come home to get feed as long as they forage elsewhere. Each farm should have at least a few guineas. Large ranges should be given, as the fowls will not thrive when cooped up. The picture shows a guinea hen on her nest.

son. I have seen the figure placed as low as 60 and as high as 120. Personally I think 100 eggs during the season is about the number. Considering that the guinea has never been bred with egg production primarily in mind, this is an excellent showing for any fowl.

They like to run two and two, male and female, and in raising them are careful not to have more than twice as many hens as males. They like to pair off and will do better that way than in a more polygamous state. A male will mate with two females, but these birds are instinctively monogamous.

I am certain that the few poor hatches I have had were caused by placing too many females with one male. As a rule, the eggs hatch out remarkably well, but this is one factor that must be kept in the mind of the guinea grower. You can't override the natural laws of breeding with any animal or fowl and expect to profit by it.

While guineas are very small it is necessary to give them about the same care that would be given young turkeys. The first week they will need some such food as bread and milk, curds, boiled eggs, chopped fine with breadcrumbs. They must have a little sand mixed with their feed, and there must be a little green stuff placed in the rations.

As soon as they get big enough to follow the hen about they will take care of the green part of the feeding. Where they are allowed to run over the fields or in a wood lot or pasture they will pick up plenty of bugs, worms and beetles, and this will serve them very well for the needed animal part of the food.

It is best to feed them at least every evening when they are getting plenty on the range. Feeding at night will always bring them back to the roost, and this is one thing that should be taught them.

Insects on Geese and Ducks.

Some folks think that geese and ducks have no lice because they immerse in water. This is a mistaken notion, says the Farm Journal. Good authorities tell us that five kinds of lice attack geese, and ducks have two kinds of mites all their own, and two kinds of lice are common to both ducks and geese. Perhaps all folks do not know that different kinds of fowls have their own particular insect pests.

Fowls Need Attention.

The thing of the very most importance in poultry raising is cleanliness. It is often lacking, but never without bad consequences. Dirty houses, dirty roosts, dirty droppings will each and all bring on sickness and waste. If you cannot attend to birds properly do not attempt to raise them, for they demand good care in every detail.

Color of the World.

A man's digestion has a good deal to do with the color of the world when he looks at it. There is more yellow in life from biliousness than from the state of the atmosphere.

MME. CATHERINE BRESHKOVSKAYA.

AGED RUSSIAN EXILE SENT FURTHER.

Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya. East Orange, N. J., Aug. 17.—Mme. Catherine Breshkovskaya, well known the world over eight years ago as "The Grandmother of the Russian Revolution," now serving a life exile in Siberia, has been transferred to the far northern city of Yakutsk, on the edge of the Arctic circle, according to a letter received from her by Miss Alice Stone Blackwell of this city.

Mme. Breshkovskaya is seventy-one years old and is suffering from cataract of both eyes, so that she cannot read. Her only recreation, she says, is sewing for a few hours each day and then only on white material.

Her banishment to Yakutsk, least desirable of all towns in Siberia, came after eighteen months solitary confinement at Irkutsk for trying to escape from Siberia, where she had been sent for life.

About ten years ago Mme. Breshkovskaya came to America and made many friends here, among them Miss Jane Addams and Julia Ward Howe. After her return to Russia she was arrested, with many other leaders and sympathizers in the growing movement for popular government. She was charged with distributing arms, found guilty and sentenced to Siberia for life.

No Indians in 100 Years. The American full-blooded Indian, of course, will not be extinct within the life of any person now living, but it will not be more than a century when the original American will have passed off this continent. There are enough Indians left on the reservations to keep up the full-blood line 100 years, but tuberculosis and the change of environment have done their work, until now there are comparatively few full-bloods left on any of the reservations.

A LINE OF FRENCH QUICK FIRERS. WAITING FOR THE GERMANS IN THE ARGONNE.

The French have not only an abundance of their famous 75 millimeter pieces, but they are also well supplied with quick firing guns, a battery of which is shown here in their trenches in the Argonne forest. Thousands of rounds of ammunition each minute can be fired from these little guns, making the trenches almost impregnable. Note the racks of 'Lulets alongside each gun.

GERMANS CAPTURE RUSSIAN FORTS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Berlin, Aug. 17.—Capture of the forts of Kovno between the Niemen and Goslina is announced in today's official report from the general staff. The Germans captured 4,500 prisoners and 24 cannon.

It is believed that the fall of the main Kovno fortifications cannot be long delayed.

The general staff also reports the capture of a large fort on the northeastern defense line at Novo Georgievsk, together with two intermediate forts. These three forts were taken by storm.

The Germans captured 2,400 Russian prisoners and 18 cannon at Novo Georgievsk.

The forces of General von Scholz and General von Gallwitz have driven the Russians back, taking 1,760 prisoners, one cannon and ten machine guns, while Prince Leopold of Bavaria and Field Marshal von Mackensen have made further victorious progress.

In the western theater a British aeroplane was captured at Bapaume. German batteries at Ostend drove off two hostile destroyers.

Fruit Steamer Overdue.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New Orleans, Aug. 17.—The United Fruit line steamer Marowijn, with many passengers aboard from Belize, British Honduras, is 42 hours overdue and fears are felt for her safety. She has a wireless outfit but all efforts to get in communication with her have failed.

The steamer Parosmina arrived at the mouth of the river today and passed the usual route of the Marowijn but had not been seen or heard from her.

The Fellow Next Door.

It is the fellow next door, who wears purple socks, or who parts his hair in the middle, or who wears his coat sleeves longer than his tailor cuts out, or who eats his soup with a knife, or who has damp hands, or talks through his nose who irritates us and makes us wish occasionally for the unlimited club-using freedom of the stone age. It is your first cousin with incurable catarrh and a slender income who is too much for you and who spoils your temper, not the anarchist orator who threatens your property and almost your life.—Exchange.

"Footsie" Under Arrest.

"Footsie," a colored giant employed on a local brickyard, was arrested in Newburgh on Monday afternoon on the charge of being a common gambler. He was wanted by the Catskill authorities for participating in a crap game at Catskill on Sunday. "Footsie," who gets his name from the immense size of his pedal extremities, is very handy with the dice and devotes much of his time to craps. He went north with Constable Castle of Catskill on Monday evening being handcuffed to the officer. As the prisoner was surrounded by a number of bottles of beer he seemed to be perfectly contented.

MENKE'S DAILY SPORTING LETTER

(By Frank G. Menke).

New York, Aug. 17.—The 10 cent baseball innovation of the Feds is one that organized baseball spoofs at now, but which it must ultimately adopt.

One of the things that has been the matter with baseball has been the high prices charged at the gate. The fans, of late, have balked at paying from 25 cents up to $1 to see an exhibition that usually lasts less than two hours.

In the long run it seems that the magnates will be gainers if they operate with a lower schedule of prices. The lower prices would attract many fans who keep away from the parks now. Certainly it would keep away those who patronize it now. Lower prices will draw larger crowds, and though the individual revenue from the fans would be less than it now is the gross revenue would be far greater.

Take the Newark Feds for an example. They used to draw about 6,000 home crowds on Sunday and an average of 2,000 on week days. On the old basis of admission prices the attendance used to be figured at 50 cents per head. That meant the total revenue for a 6,000 Sunday crowd was $3,000 and it was $1,000 for the daily crowd.

On the first Sunday the Feds put the lower prices into effect they drew 19,000, on the next day, Monday 8,000. The lower prices made the average admission about 25 cents. That meant they took in $4,750 on Sunday and $2,000 on Monday.

And ever since the lower prices have been in effect in the Federal League the attendance at the games throughout the circuit has almost doubled, which means that although they have reduced prices about 33 per cent all around the attendance has picked up 50 per cent.

Fed Catcher Robbed of Bankroll.

"Yip," Owens, the Baltimore Federal catcher, is yipping loudly these days. "Yip" was robbed—and by regular footpads this time—not by an umpire.

"Gee, a ball player ain't safe no more anywhere," yips "Yip." "I used to think that if a fellow could get away from a ball field without being robbed of $25 by an umpire that he was safe. But he ain't."

It happened in Kansas City—this robbing of "Yip." It was midnight—and Yip was parading one of Kansas City's famed thoroughfares. Up steps a guy.

"Hoe de do," he said pleasantly—like and at once levelled a gatling gun at "Yip's" head. "Warm evening, isn't it? Produce your roll or I'll shoot a bullet right through your dome."

"Yip" produced the roll 15 regular dollars.

"If I had a head like some ball players I know I'd have invited the guy to go ahead and shoot—and I would have had no fear. Concrete can resist bullets. But I ain't got any head like that, so I'm $15 poorer."

Third Major League Chance.

George Mogridge, the pitcher recently secured from the Des Moines team in the Central League is in this way, getting his third major league trial. Mogridge who tried out in 1911 and again in 1912 by the White Sox—but he was found wanting, and the Sox sent him back the last time without a string attached.

Mogridge seems to have corrected his greatest fault this year—lack of control—and he's been the sensation of the Western circuit. He looks good enough now to stand the major league gaff.

Moore Saved Alexander From Bushes.

Grover Alexander, the wonderful pitcher of the Phillies, owes his major league life to the faith of Pat Moran and the teaching of Earl Moore.

Alexander had words of speed—and no control—when he joined the Phillies a few years ago. Charlie Dooin, then manager of the club, became disgusted with Alex's lack of control. But Pat Moran, who was catching then and coaching, said: "Don't let him go. He'll be a wonder some day."

Dooin reluctantly accepted Moran's advice. But as time went on Alex didn't improve and it looked like the bushes for Alex when Earl Moore, then a Quaker pitcher said: "I've been watching Alexander. He looks like a coming star but he must change his style of delivery. If you don't mind I'll try to teach him my side arm motion."

"Go to it," said Dooin. Moore did—and Alexander, under the tutelage of Moore learned the side wheel swing—and became one of the greatest pitchers in the history of the game.

Philadelphia Wild Over Phillies.

Funny lot, those Philadelphians. They refuse to patronize Connie Mack's ball park when the athletes were winning pennants and world series. As a result the Mackmen lost $60,000.

But it's different with the Phillies. During the first 50 home games the Phillies have drawn 340,000 spectators—an average of 7,200 per game. If this rate of attendance keeps up the Phillies owners stand to clear about $110,000 on the season.

the road was a blaze of headlights. They came in carload lots and there were lots of cars loaded with pleasure seekers, to whom Glasco was the objective point. There were two separate exhibition camps, one in the lower part of the village on the deserted brickyard of the Maginnis estate, and the other at Buono's Park, near Fuller's, and like contending armies each tried their best to make night hideous or resplendent, which ever way it strikes you. It was midnight before quiet once more reigned and the usual stillness of the approaching Sabbath morning allowed a few hours for rest and sleep. Then followed the parade, led by the Washburn band, which presented a fine appearance and rendered stirring music. The predominant feature of the parade was the children, dressed in white and adorned with wreaths of evergreen and flowers. All things considered, it was the best celebration of its kind in several years past.
